An AMP for all Seasons? An introduction to writing Strategic Asset Management Documentation in the Public Sector

CPD 4.75 hours

Webinar Date

Tuesday 7th November 2024

Event summary

This event will provide a practical introduction to the development of Property Asset Management Documentation in the public sector based on the approach developed by CIPFA. We will start looking at how you can start to develop high level policy for the management of property assets including engagement with, and involvement of, key stakeholders. We will then move on to what elements might be incorporated into a effective strategy, and possibly more importantly, what to leave out. Finally, we will talk about the Asset Management Action Plan which should provide a forward plan which can be used to demonstrate progress and performance.

About this event

Session 1:

- Understanding how the organisational working structure and processes might affect the format, and the way in which we develop asset management documentation.

Session 2:

- Establishing the essential components of an asset management policy with practical ideas for how to engage with various stakeholders across an organisation.

Session 3:

- Understanding the key areas to consider when formulating an asset management strategy and what level to pitch it at.

Session 4:

- Appreciating how an Asset Management action plan can be utilised as an essential tool in the strategic management of assets.
- Understanding key milestones that might require timely revisions to our documentation.

Who should attend?

Anyone who is in the process of writing asset management documentation at a strategic level or is likely to be involved in this in the future. This could include property professionals, service managers, finance professionals and those who have an interest or responsibility in the management or maintenance of buildings within the public sector..

How will I benefit?

Delegates will gain a practical understanding of development of Property Asset Management Documentation in the public sector and have an opportunity to raise questions based on their own experience.
